Half of Doctors in Russia Are Women

Must Be Members of Union of Medical Workers.

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R.—When a person in the Soviet Union calls for medical help, the chances are even that a woman doctor will come around.

It's certain that the doctor, whether man or woman, is a member of the Trade Union of Medical Workers and will be pulling down between 1,500 and 2,000 rubles a month in government pay, which is between two and three times what ordinary workers make.

There is room at the top for top men, however, and if a doctor succeeds in becoming a professor of medicine he eventually may make 6,000 to 7,000 rubles a month. (The ruble is worth about 18 cents at the official rate, but only one cent at the diplomats' exchange rate.)

This information was gathered along with other facts by a Moscow medical services in a visit to the Moscow Medical Institute.

The institute's director, Dr. Andrei Lihachev, and Dr. Ilya Stradon, a member of the Soviet Medical academy, answered questions freely.

The questions brought out that state employed doctors are allowed to practice privately after hours if they want to enlarge their income. Standard medical service is supposed to be available to all persons regardless of position. There are some hospitals, however, such as Moscow's top-notch Kremlin, which are open only to big-time officials, diplomats and the like.

Of the 150,000 doctors in the Soviet Union, half are women. Before the revolution, there were only 18,000 doctors in the country, they said. About 70 per cent of the 4,000 students at the institute are women, but the percentage of men has increased since the war.

The medical leaders were asked what happens when someone in Moscow gets an acute appendix attack. They replied that a telephone call would bring an ambulance and a doctor within 10 minutes, and the patient would be rushed to a hospital. There a diagnosis would be made by a consultation of doctors and the patient either would undergo an operation or be taken to a specialist hospital.

The informants said rural sections had the same system of medical districts as big cities, and that some industries, such as railways, had their own hospitals.

When in New York Don't Act in Seattle Style

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Pearl Jensen, thinking to save her husband from being murdered by a pair of alleged thieves on the edge of Chinatown, pulled a fire alarm, just as she had been taught to do back home in Seattle, Wash.

The thieves were caught, the husband saved. But justice proved swifter for Mrs. Jensen than the thieves. She was fined $50 for turning in a false alarm.

The thieves were being held in $2,000 bond on felony charges. The fine later was remitted.

Mrs. Jensen, 38, told Magistrate Joseph Levine that she and her husband, William, 42, were strangers in town.

Shannon Airport in Ireland Is Now Free of Customs

LIMERICK, EIRE.—The Shannon airport, stopping point for many transatlantic planes, has become the world's first customs-free landing field.

Goods coming into the 800-acre airport zone were freed of customs duties unless the merchandise is intended for sale in Eire. The new system, inaugurated at a ceremony presided over by Trade Minister Sean Lemass, will permit American and European manufacturers to place their goods in display warehouses at Shannon, making it a "world store window for buyers."

Officials said they hoped to interest manufacturers in building factories within the zone for processing raw material, imported duty free by air, into finished goods for customs-free aerial export.

Television to Revolutionize Political Campaign Technique

NEW YORK.—Television will revolutionize the technique of political campaigning in 1948 just as the radio did in 1924, is the opinion of Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, president of Radio Corporation of America.

Sarnoff thinks 1947 can be television's first major year if the flow of materials for the manufacture of television sets is increased.

By 1948 several thousand homes, possibly as many as 50,000, will have television sets, the RCA head believes.

Truck Owner Didn't Know, But Neither Did the Judge

MILWAUKEE.—He didn't know it was illegal to put a "for sale" sign in the window of his truck parked on a city street, Carl Deuster told District Judge Harvey L. Neelen.

"Well," answered the judge, "I've been up here eight years and I didn't know it either. Sentence suspended."

CANCER DRIVE YIELDS $816.81

Although the returns are not complete, contributions for the town and county of Appomattox in the recent Cancer Fund drive total $816.81. These results are very gratifying, especially in view of the fact that the funds collected last year have been exhausted for indigent patient care and further assistance in this line can be resumed only when funds from the current drive have been ascertained.

Appomattox has always been liberal, but despite past generosity here and elsewhere in the state, campaign funds are inadequate for the needs. In a sense, this is encouraging because it signifies that more and more people are becoming "cancer conscious" and more and more calls are being made on the community.

Appomattox has always been liberal, but despite past generosity here and elsewhere in the state, campaign funds are inadequate for the needs. In a sense, this is encouraging because it signifies that more and more people are becoming "cancer conscious" and more and more calls are being made on the community.

It is desired that this report shall not only give you an account of the sources of Appomattox contributions, but also serve to publicly acknowledge the splendid cooperation and work given by the solicitors and workers.

United States Returns Loot Taken by Germans

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—The United States shipped 25 million dollars worth of Nazi-looted Hungarian silver and art objects to Budapest in a new gesture of friendship.

One hundred and 20 tons of silver—needed by Hungary to keep her economy on a sound basis—were returned to the former enemy country under an agreement between the U. S. state department and a Hungarian economic mission.

The precious cargo was en route to Hungary's capital city aboard a heavily armed U. S. army train, which reached Vienna after passing in almost total military secrecy across Germany and Austria.

2,171 Eligible Voters Listed; No Primary

There are 2,171 eligible voters in Appomattox County this year, according to the lists of names posted this week. This is considered an excellent showing and indicates that local citizens like to keep eligible to participate in elections.

However, as far as this year is concerned, the voters will have to wait for the general election in November to vote, unless there is a special election. There will be no primary in August. This is county election year, but all incumbent county officers are without opposition for another term, making a primary unnecessary.

INFORMATION FOR VETERANS OF WORLD WAR II

Veterans who were discharged as late as 1946 or 1947, and who have not paid any capitation taxes previously will have to present their discharges to the registrar at the polls in the November election. All, who wish to vote and who haven't already done so, will have to register at their precincts on or before October 8, 1947. There will be no Democratic primary in August this year.

ROAD PROJECTS

Richmond, June 18.—There was no let-up in the State Highway Department's farm-to-market road improvement program here this week, as the call went out for contractors' bids on an additional 17 secondary road-building projects.

Six of the projects were in the Bristol highway construction district; others were scattered over the State.

SUGAR STAMP FREE

For household consumers, and for public eating places and other institutional users, last week found a long list of rationed items, returned to grocery shelves completely stamp-free.

Despite the ration action, the prices on sugar and related products will continue under control.

USE DUT TO CONTROL FLIES ON CATTLE AND IN BARN

That menace to all livestock producers, the fly season, is here again, reminds J. O. Rowell, entomologist for the Extension Service. But flies, which annoy your cattle and cause a reduction in milk and beef production may be controlled with spray applications of DDT.

Rowell points out, however, that the spray should not be depended on for complete control of flies; it should be used to supplement the usual sanitation measures.

5 Home Games For Lee Team

Lee Theatre has now five home games before playing away. Saturday, June 21, Glasgow will play here at 3:15. The famous Billy Robertson will probably oppose Gerald Torrance. On Sunday, June 22, Salem will play here. The local team thinks Salem is the best club they have played.

Huge sums will be needed during next few years in Europe.
